

Department of Social Work and Social Care Seminar

New arenas for adult safeguarding

Wednesday, 8 November 2017

In this presentation Professor Jill Manthorpe will outline some of the new subjects that are being taken up as safeguarding work and some of the long-standing subjects that are encountered in practice. She will explore the changes that took place under the Care Act and whether these appear to have been minor or major. Jill will draw on the Social Care Workforce Research Unit's studies of adult safeguarding over the past 15 years to think about links between policy, practice and research.

Professor Jill Manthorpe

Director, Social Care Workforce
Research Unit
Kings College London

Time: 5.30pm - 7pm
(Registration and refreshments from 5pm)

Venue: Kingston University, Frank Lampl Building, Room 1027
Kingston Hill, KT2 7LB

To book for this free seminar please visit:
www.healthcare.ac.uk/events or email HSCE-events@sgul.kingston.ac.uk

Faculty of Health, Social Care and Education

The Department of Social Work and Social Care at Kingston University and St George's, University of London, runs a regular programme of seminars at its Kingston Hill Campus on issues of topical and contemporary importance, delivered by leading national and international researchers, policy makers and commentators. The seminars are open to all who have an interest in social work best practice and in social work education.

Biography:

Jill is Professor of Social Work at King's College London, Director of the Social Care Workforce Research Unit and NIHR Senior Investigator Emeritus. Currently she is involved in advisory work for the Department of Health on several subjects and works closely with several social care and health sector employers to link research, policy and practice. In the past year she has presented research findings to international conferences in Australia, Singapore, Norway and Northern Ireland; she also travels widely in the UK to speak with local and regional networks, mainly through Making Research Count. She works on a number of Unit studies that are funded by the Department of Health and also on other studies funded by the NIHR, the ESRC, and research charities with Unit colleagues and other research teams. Jill also provides assistance on workforce matters to local councils, NHS bodies, and employers on a pro bono basis and to user, carer and patient groups about evidence and communications. She provides expert advice to NICE and to other NHS Arm's Length Bodies about care services and workforce initiatives.

Forthcoming seminars

29 November 2017	Professor John Seddon, Vanguard Consulting Fixing broken systems in housing and social care
7 December 2017	Professor David Shemmings, University of Kent Child protection and attachment
21 March 2018	Annual Social Work and Social Care Conference 'Success in Social Work'

For more information and to register your attendance please book online at www.healthcare.ac.uk/events